

6. What, in a quick note, is the Philadelphia confession?

7. And in an equally quick note, what was the outcome of the Mandate of 1934? And perhaps you should tell us what the mandate was after all.

8. We hope you could list the five fundamentals if we asked for it...but this is not a listing test. What did those who propounded the five fundamentals hope to gain by them...I mean, the immediate goal in the historic setting of their issuance.

9. How is the concept of a broadened theological base seen in the Confession of 1967?

10. Finally, John Wesley gave the impression that his formal studies had meant little to him. How did this idea do a disservice to his spiritual community in later years?

Now there are a lot of other things and I am sorry that some of the things noted have not been discussed to the degree we might like to discuss them... sometimes that is just the way it is. And there will be a lot more things at the final and some heavy thinking stuff as well. But I will try to mark these and return them in time...so keep working and make sure your career is not one that majors on these things or minors on the truth but is somewhere in between for the more efficient work of the completion of the program of God.
