

areas where many of our tests come and the areas in which we are tried and fail. Therefore if we can learn more of them for greater steadiness in life we will be the richer for it and the testimony of the Lord more wonderfully advanced.

In predicitive Scriptures it is good to think about what will happen tomorrow and it is good to study the Word to understand the times and settings of our day. But our thrust in these talks has been to fill the soul with the lessons of God's dealings with his own in the hope that so armed we may continue to live for him. This is a life of victory and service...or should be, in the practical realm as well as in the spiritual, and some of these lessons help us to continue that way. When they are well understood we may continue in a progressive mastery of the weightier matters of truth...but these items must be continually reviewed so that practically and positively we live in and for the will of God.
