

3. Literary triumphs
 4. The Price of Success
 5. Apologetic influence
 6. The Clock winds down
- D. Final Note: "In Christ....death can be safely ignored and Heaven confidently welcomed."
- E. And, if perchance our time should multiply rather than shrink, I will offer a few notes at this point on what I perceive to be of special interest in the personality and perspective of our subject. But time is a cruel taskmaster....

III. Sketches on the Work of J.B. Phillips

A. As a translator of the Scriptures:

1. Training
2. Immediate aim (1941)
3. Translation aims
4. Influence of C.S. Lewis
5. The stages of the work
6. Acceptance and questions
7. And in the role of critic
8. A short evaluation of his importance as a translator...
9. And a brief note on how his work as a translator affected him...
10. And probably a briefer note on his view of Scripture and the current battles over inerrancy.

B. As an apologist:

1. The grounds for his ideology
2. The "ring of truth"
3. Aspects of methodology
4. The radio ministry, et al
5. Short evaluation of his influence in this realm:

C. As a pastor:

1. The role of destiny