

THE GOSPEL OF MATTHEW
(Revised 1992)

T. V. Taylor

I. General Introduction to our course of study

A. As pertains to the class:

1. Greeting!

2. The purpose and content of the course:

This class is intended to give a survey understanding to the Gospel of Matthew with particular attention given to the special features in the book that demonstrate the "messiahship" or "kingship" of the Lord Jesus. The broad treatment of the book will work to this end.

3. What I want the student to do:

--Read the Gospel of Matthew at least once and, if possible, twice as we conduct our study.

--Read the small paperback commentary on Matthew by Robertson (Bookstore)

4. Class policies:

--tape if you want

--participation is always welcome

--if you want to bring a friend some night, feel free to do so.

--but absolutely no eating or drinking in the classroom...the presence of food makes the instructor salivate to the point where he cannot teach!

5. Classwork:

#1..introduction and Matthew 1-4 +

#2..Matthew 5-12

#3..Matthew 13-20

#4..Matthew 21-25

#5..Matthew 26-28, concluding summary and notes comparing the Gospels.

Yes, we will need to hurry but is that new?
