C. A couple of notes or so on outlines:

1. The analytical outline
2. The content outline
3. The preaching outline...

Now in one way or another an outline is an outline but the intent of them all is to organize the material and thinking that goes with it into a logical arrangement that will enhance the knowledge and understanding of the student or the hearer. You should aim, if you have not done so, to know a basic outline for every book in the Bible..not one of great detail but one that will make the content of the book more available to you and to anyone to whom you might have opportunity of ministry.

D. Some further notes regarding general content

1. The apparent audience
2. The character of the warnings
3. Some interesting omissions
4. And a few strong inferences

E. Problems in interpretation

1. Our essential hermeneutical principle
2. Applications: ideal and realistic
3. Ease of eisegesis
4. Assumptive nature of theological schools (and this is discussed in greater detail somewhat later)
