

- stress the importance God places upon it
- emphasize the "natural" thrust that should be ours
- present the character of the Deity
- minimize distractions and/or rival ideologies

VII. Old Testament Contributions to New Testament worship

A. Noticing the essential differences:

1. The focus is essentially the same but the projection is different in that the redemptive program is completed in Jesus and so a different perspective is offered.
2. The paraphernalia is radically altered
3. The character of priesthood is broadened
4. The Scriptural patterns are re-phrased:
 - a. John 4
 - b. Hebrews 9:1-14
 - c. Hebrews 10
 - d. Hebrews 13:10-16and to these might be added many other passages in the same general areas.

B. The contributed realities:

1. The importance of the heart
2. The subject of worship
3. The parameters
4. The emotional realization
5. The particular expressions
6. The importance

- C. Conclusion: The worship practices of our day have their roots in the revelation of the Old Testament and find the nature of expression to be that of the saints of old.
