

H. Context

In as much as this study has included an entire book there is no consideration of the immediate context. The only context general is that by which the book is fitted into the complete New Testament. In this regard it may be said that the book shows to a full extent the attitude of love which should be manifested by believers and harmonizes well with the other teachings of Paul on this subject.