

8. Summary:

The oppressed are delivered, peace is established, the opponents are dealt with in the justice of God.

V. CONCLUSION TO OUR STUDY

For our part the book of Zechariah gives three vital lessons:

1. The importance of executing the Lord's will
2. The necessity of keeping proper priorities
3. The reality of God's program and our trust in Him.

It helps explain the action of the tribulation age (Jacob's trouble) and the fact as well as the method of God's deliverance.

It shows us the concern and care of God in a way that should fill our own lives with confidence and peace.

And, when all else is said, it reminds us that God remembers and we should have hope.

If time allows...and it is doubtful...I will make a few more notes on Zechariah in the New Testament in addition to those I have made on page 10.
